On 12 July 1948, in Warsaw, Stefania Jamiołkowska reported to the call and announced that at the end of August or at the beginning of September 1944 she had seen through the window of the house at Opoczyńska Street 17 over a few days a group of 30 men under an escort of German soldiers being led along Opoczyńska Street to Narbutta Street. She recognised Ryszard Palacz and Marcin Seweryniak, a caretaker of house number 12 on Opoczyńska Street, in the led group. She did not recognise any other men.
